SHIRLEY STRUM AND THE PUMPHOUSE GANG

Dr. Shirley Strum lives sixty miles north of Nairobi deep in the Great African Rift Valley. Her neighbours for six years have been the pumphouse gang, an extraordinary troop of about 100 baboons. The film follows her through a whole year with the gang.

Filmed by Bob Campbell.

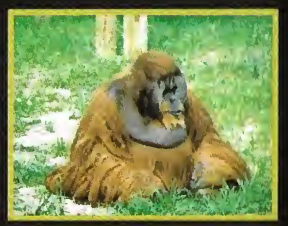
ORANG-UTAN



There are certainly no more than 10,000 and possibly as few as 5,000 orang-utans left in the rain forests of Borneo and Sumatra, the only places in the world where wild orangs now exist. Given these alarming statistics, every captive orang that can be successfully returned to the wild is a "plus" for conservation. This film shows the work of a remarkable rehabilitation centre where orangs that have been illegally captured for pets, or for sale abroad, are taught to become wild apes again.
